TOWN TEAM WINNER
OVER HIGH SCHOOL

Slaughter is the only word that describes what happened to the baseball team of the Covina union high school when it went up against the picked city and valley team last Saturday.

But the team won in one respect at least, and to the extent of a fine purse of money with which to buy baseball jerseys and other equipment, the entire gate receipts being turned over to them as a recognition of the fact that the team has played splendid baseball during the season, ending the race for the pennant in second place.

But for some reason which may be known to Coach McIntosh the school team was in bad form last Saturday, and also, it seemed that they were overawed by the number of big league suits, university suits and college suits that appeared on the field as the hastily-constructed town team assembled.

Perritt, a one-time league pitcher on the coast, twirled from the box for the town team, and although he had not been in the game for some time, and threw straight balls mostly, the high school boys couldn't seem to land on him for safe hits, while, on the other hand, the town team hit Harnish for the school team all over the lot at will. It was a veritable batting carnival for the town team. The school team did some good fielding at times, and at other times pulled some stunts that were inexcusable, as for instance, when a ground ball went through two of them, and when the pitcher dropped a pop fly twenty feet from the home plate. Among the town team members who covered themselves with dirt, perspiration and glory were R. A. Welch, with heavy hitting, as well as Montague, Stewart, Pitzer and McIntosh, while Clutterbuck, Powers and Percy Jackson played star parts at bat and in the field.

The game was umpired for a few innings by J. D. Coles of the First National bank, who retired later to the field and was supplanted by R. A. Welch. Both umpires came in for some unmerciful roasting. In justice to the school team it should be said that they have been in the habit of having the ball put over the plate at the proper height before getting a strike called on them, and they were puzzled by the amateur umpiring that gave strikes on wide ones and low ones.

The Covina team's poor play in the first inning was a great disappointment, and the school team benefited greatly in a financial way even if they didn't learn much to their advantage about the national game.

AIR-RIDE CONTEST
CLOSES ON TUESDAY

Next Tuesday night closes the air-flight contest that has been in progress at the McClellan & Larkin hardware store. Four more trading days remain in which to win a ride over the San Gabriel valley from 10 to 40 miles in length, according to a statement made at the store yesterday.

The rides will be taken on Thursday of next week, when two 150-horsepower Curtiss planes will arrive at 10 o'clock at South Citrus avenue, one to be utilized to take up the twenty-eight winners in the contest, and one which will be devoted to taking up passengers who wish to pay for privilege.

Mayor Stanton will announce the winners at the aviation grounds. After all winners have been drawn from the basket, two more tickets will be drawn and the two lucky ones will also receive rides. All contestants must be on the grounds at the time of drawing, or the ride will be forfeited, it is stated.

Joe Hopkins of Baldwin Park is high man this week, and it looks as if Baldwin Park would carry off the honors unless Covina contestants get busy. Mr. Larkin said. It would be easy, however, for others to pass the high mark, if payments are made on stoves, refrigerators, washing machines and other merchandise. It was announced that a small initial payment on merchandise will count in tickets for the full price of the article purchased.

The names of the contestants are announced in a large advertisement in this issue.

COMMUNITY SERVICES AT HIGH SCHOOL NEXT SUNDAY

An audience of more than three hundred people assembled at the high school campus last Sunday evening at 6 o'clock to participate in the union services of the Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist, and Christian churches.

Music was furnished by the Presbyterian choir, and Rev. Ed Williams of that church gave a short, practical sermon. Rev. W. C. Goyer of the Methodist church will preach Sunday at the same place and hour, with music furnished by the Methodist choir. The announcement is made that there will be plenty of seats for everyone, and that the entire community is invited.

Captain Howard T. Douglas in Fatal
Crash During Hampton Roads Bombing

Flags over the postoffice and city buildings and on mercantile houses fell to half-mast early yesterday morning in Covina, when the official news from the war department was received that Captain Howard T. Douglas of Covina had been drowned following an airplane collision at Hampton Roads, Chesapeake bay, on Wednesday.

Associated Press news dispatches had carried the tragic news to Covina and the aviator's father and relatives the night before, but the confirmation from official quarters did not come until morning, when Summerfield Douglas, his father, was notified through a department telegram. With the telegram came another, from Captain Douglas's close friend and roommate, Captain Corliss Moseley, bearing words of profound sympathy, and volunteering to aid the family in whatever way he could.

Captain Douglas met his death while flying as an observation officer above the bombing practice which was in action on a large scale in Hampton Roads, where an obsolete battleship hulk had been anchored as a target. Charges of high explosives were being released by bombing planes. A plane piloted by Lieutenant Marll J. Plumb of the aviation service released a bomb and started to ascend. A collision occurred between Lieutenant Plumb's machine and that of Captain Douglas. Both planes clung together a moment, and then were seen in nose dives that ended in the bay. The official notification from the department stated that up until late Wednesday night the bodies of the aviators had not been recovered. In the communication from Captain Douglas's chum, Captain Moseley, the information was given that the accident occurred where the water was but fifty feet deep, and that there was every reason to believe that the bodies would be recovered.

WAS BEST-LOVED SOLDIER.

No casualty during the war so shocked the upper San Gabriel valley as the news of the death of Captain Douglas, who was known to almost everyone here, and who had achieved the most remarkable record of any man of the valley.

Captain Douglas would have been 34 years old in October, and was the second son of Summerfield Douglas of the Covina Realty company, and the brother of ex-Lieutenant Gordon C. Douglas of Covina. He was born in Canada. His mother died several years ago. He went into the service as a private soldier in January of 1917, joining a coast artillery unit at Covina, where he aided in the formation of a company that was afterwards stationed at Fort MacArthur. He entered the officers' training camp at the Presidio at the time war was declared.

KILLIAN MADE PRESIDENT OF ASSOCIATED CHAMBERS

The annual meeting of the directors of the associated chambers of commerce of the San Gabriel valley was held last Friday at the Union League club in Los Angeles, and Jonas Killian of El Monte was chosen as president for the coming year. The retiring president is D. J. Shultis of Baldwin Park, who has steered the course of the association in a creditable way during his regime.

George Cross of Puente was elected treasurer, and the secretary will be Charles P. Bayer of Pomona, who has held the position for several terms.

Mr. Killian is a prominent walnut grower of the San Gabriel valley, a graduate of the University of California, and has been actively interested in the affairs of the valley for several years.

GENTRY BIBLE CLASS TO GIVE PATRIOTIC PROGRAM

At the business luncheon of the Gentry Bible class held this week on Tuesday evening at the Hotel Covina, it was decided to hold these lunches on Monday evenings in the future. Next Monday night officers for the coming quarter will be elected. A vote of thanks was extended to Homer Hostetler, who has been the efficient secretary of the organization, and it was the desire of the men that he continue at that post.

A week from next Sunday the class will devote the entire program at the Star theater at 9:30 o'clock to patriotic features. The current events subject will be disarmament. Special musical numbers of a patriotic nature are being prepared.

"DOUG" MACLEAN AND
ARBuckle AT THE STAR

"The Jailbird," a Paramount picture, with Douglas MacLean in the leading role, will be shown at the Star theater tomorrow night and Saturday night, a story of a convict who gets control of a little newspaper, reforms the town and himself.

One of the funniest and one of the most interesting and fast-moving films that has been scheduled in many days is that of "The Roundup," with Fatty Arbuckle playing the lead, which comes on Monday and Tuesday nights. This is announced to be real fun and excitement.

STANTON LOSES TIRE—
REPLACED BY AUTO CLUB

A new tire and casing was neatly slipped from the back of the machine of Mayor J. M. Stanton of Covina at a time when his car was standing at Eastlake park last Saturday. Mr. Stanton made a report to the Automobile Club of Southern California, and

CAPTAIN HOWARD DOUGLAS

After receiving his commission as a first lieutenant of infantry he was hurried to Camp Lewis, where he remained only a week, going from there to the school of fire at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, and thence almost immediately to France as an aerial observation officer for the infantry, but attached to an aviation unit.

As an observation lieutenant he flew constantly over all the engagements in which the American troops participated, including St. Mihiel, Chateau Thierry and all offensives, including the Argonne drive. His plane was riddled by German anti-aircraft fire during one reconnaissance, in August, 1918, but he escaped without injury, and he received no wounds during his entire service in Europe.

Following the armistice he was placed in command of an aviation unit in Germany with the troops of occupation. Together with his brother, who was attached to the twenty-ninth engineering corps, and who was a survey officer in the burial grounds for American troops, he came home in the summer of 1919, having served in Europe since January 18, 1918.

RAISED TO CAPTAINCY.

With the rank of captain he entered the regular army with the aviation forces, and was stationed at Washington under General Mitchell. He has been General Mitchell's flying companion in practically all the practice that has been participated in by the aviation forces in this country, directing a famous cross country record flight, and the flight into Alaska made last year.

through their insurance system the property was immediately replaced.

Mayor Stanton says that the club officials say a wholesale business is being done in the stealing of tires, several thousand tires having been taken in this manner within a short time. It is said that an organized gang is at work with a truck, which drives alongside of a car, with the result that the tire is taken and the truck is on its way in a few seconds.

Captain Douglas was a graduate of the Covina high school, and of the University of California. Letters to his father and the family in Covina were received this week from him, filled with enthusiasm concerning the coming maneuvers at Hampton Roads. During the past two weeks he had made several long solo flights, one to New England, where he wrote of visiting Harvard university and Yale.

Captain Douglas had elected to follow aviation as his life pursuit. He had aided in writing the first American manual on aviation, now in use by the war department, and expected to revise it each year. He was in line for his majority at the time of his death.

His chum, Lieutenant Frank J. Gard of Glendora, who entered the training camp in the class with him, was killed leading a platoon in the Argonne.

FATHER GOES EAST.

Preparations were being made last night by Summerfield Douglas to leave at once for Washington and perhaps Hampton Roads, in the desire to assist and direct in the recovery of the body, and to bring it back to Covina for burial.

City officials and local American Legion officers said yesterday that the highest honors possible will be accorded the return of this brave soldier, and that the city and valley will unite to place humble tribute to this man who gave so ably and nobly during the entire period of the war, and who came to the supreme sacrifice in the direct line of duty.

The Community Picnic

There can be no public activity so beneficial to a community as that of gathering the people into one common effort, such as the picnic of the combined Sunday schools, held this week.

People will always differ to some extent concerning the interpretation of the bible and as to the exact purposes of they who founded the Christian religion. This is not peculiar to religion, but is just a part of the human struggle for truth that antedates all religions and which permeates every endeavor, religious or otherwise.

But religious differences have become subordinate to belief in the general good that comes from Christian teaching. Church organizations are no longer antagonistic camps. That they ever were so is merely because of a lack of understanding, which is being taken care of by gradual progress in all education, in the church and out of it.

Today we find the churches of Covina cooperating at all times for the good of the people and the community. Separate church organizations may persist for some time, because of the human equation, not the religious. It may not be possible as yet to merge all organizations into one, even though no person can deny that the operation of one organization is superior in results to that of a scattered many. This is not peculiar to religious activity; it is a truism in all human endeavor.

However far away or near the time of the merging of religious activities may be, it is certain that the local churches are trending toward it, and it is a matter of profound satisfaction to find evidence of it in the combined Sunday schools at times, the union meetings which are now in progress, and the participation of church leaders in community affairs, with emphasis on the real meaning of the verb "to commune." A community is not entirely a community when its activities are segregated, any more than a steam engine is an engine when its wheels and cogs are scattered over a field.

California is taking the lead in many things. In this state has been initiated much legislation for the betterment of mankind. More attention is being paid to the preparation of the individual for his duties among his fellows; more of the spirit of cooperation, of coordination. These have been words of little more than public pater in the past, but they are coming to have a meaning.

Progress goes with every combined Sunday school picnic every year. Each summer we move nearer the light. There is hope in it, and sincerity, that tends to banish doubt and skepticism. The race stumbles on and out of the darkness into the light. "Every valley shall be exalted and the rough places made plain."

To Victory Spray Agents

Owing to objections of plant pathologists to the presence of water soluble arsenic in arsenical sprays, claiming the loss of acidity and bleaching of trees is due to this element, we have endeavored to take from Victory Spray this water soluble arsenic.

We take pleasure in telling you that, working in conjunction with some of the best chemists on the Pacific coast, we have succeeded beyond our expectations. We have reduced the soluble arsenic almost to the point of elimination, and now feel that Victory Spray is as near perfect as can be made. We have never before been able to give the citrus industry as good a spray as Victory Spray is now, and we believe that Victory Spray is by far the best citrus spray on the market, and one which we feel you may recommend without hesitation to the growers.

Covina Grammar School in Its Largest Graduation

Covina grammar school's largest class, numbering sixty-one, was graduated from that institution last Thursday evening before an audience that filled the auditorium.

In the new building, which has been occupied but a year, and which is one of the finest examples of modern school equipment to be found in the state, the people gathered to honor these citizens-in-the-making, and to share in the honors that were heaped upon them. Covina city and valley, its growth and its certain future of prosperity and progress, was seen in the personell of this splendid class, whose members will some day take up the affairs of the community, the state and the nation.

Beginning with a processional march, played by Miss Bertha Hutson, school music teacher, the scholars filed down from the rooms above, accompanied by the school trustees and the two class teachers, Miss Eva Mohr and Miss Lellah Baxter. The school orchestra rendered a pleasing number, and a song was given by the eighth grade chorus. The invocation was made by Rev. Williams of the Presbyterian church. Rev. C. D. Eddy of the Baptist church then delivered the address.

"CRADLE OF DEMOCRACY."

Under the title of "Future Citizens," Rev. Eddy said in part:

The schools of America have well been called the cradle of democracy. You boys and girls, going through this school and on into the high school, and then to college, will be better able to earn a living and enjoy the processes of its achievement; you will see some things in the meaning of the mountains and the fields and the cities that those who have never had your privilege will never see. Books will mean more to you than to the illiterate; people of all races and colors will mean more to you than they will to those without schooling. You may be nimble of wit and clever in business, and because of that, better able to win in the keen competitions of life. But if that is all that your school will mean to you you have failed, and your school has failed.

The one supreme thing for which this nation has built schools, and that your fathers and mothers have maintained, is that you may be a more effective and useful citizen. Your school is your cradle of citizenship.

Citizenship has never had a fixed meaning any more than does any word that stands for a growing thing. A baby is born in your home. It is a boy. You don't call him a man, do you? He is just a baby. For weeks and months and at least two years—then we commence to call him boy, and for the course of from ten to fifteen years he is just a boy. Even after all these years of training and development, we qualify that word "man" with the adjective, "young man." Now, citizenship is just like that.

Had you boys and girls been to school in China 25 years ago, you would have studied geography from a great map, the greater part of which would be China, the rest Asia, while all the rest of the world would have been mere specks of islands and peninsulas. But China is changing.

Had you boys and girls studied history in Germany 25 years ago, you would have learned that there was one people superior to all others, destined to eventually rule the world. Your heroes would be the war-lords; your loyalty unquestioned to such as the kaiser. But the children of Germany will be given a far different vision of the world in the coming days.

Had you finished your school in India 25 years ago, you boys would be commencing to do the exact kind of work your fathers did. No choice for you as to what you should do for a living, the caste in which you were born would be the caste into which you must fit. But today schools are being built in India. The boys and girls alike are being educated, and the caste system is breaking down, and boys are daring to choose other vocations from that of their fathers.

THE PAST GENERATION.

But what about our own schools of 25 years ago? I remember in the eighth grade of studying Anderson's history, that practically all the great inventions of modern years had been made in America. The cotton gin, the steam engine, the steamboat, the sewing machine, the self-binder, all being American-made, but they didn't tell us of Dr. Pasteur, the Frenchman, who by his discovery of the germ theory has so simplified the science of sanitation and preventive medicine that the average man's life has been lengthened by some eight years. They didn't tell us that for coal tar dyes and most of our chemicals we had to depend upon the scientific skill of Germany. You boys today know that an Italian discovered wireless telegraph, a French chemist discovered radium, and that Japan today has a better school system, perhaps, than America, and that there is less illiteracy per capita in Japan than there is in the United States.

The point that I am emphasizing is that you are living in an entirely different world than that in which your fathers and mothers did.

The school is the cradle of democracy but the ardor and scope of that democracy is determined in the home. How shall our children think of America? They can think of America as embracing some three and one half million square miles of land, with less than two-thirds of its agricultural resources developed, with less than one-seventh of its possible water-power impounded, and with its mineral wealth almost unexplored. Here are the possibilities of wealth and power which may be thought of only in terms of selfish achievement and comfortable living.

Or again, we may think of this nation as comprising some one hundred and five million of people, the best conditioned, the most prosperous and the best entertained and best looking people in the world. We may think of these things as ours by right of possession. These are blessings bought by the hard work and noble sacrifice of the forefathers, and the only way of remaining in possession of them is by sharing the blessings with all the peoples of this nation.

Shall the heroism and sacrifice of the men of the late war be only made immortal in oratory and poetry and song? Or shall it be preserved in our industrial and community and international relations? Shall all that the fathers died for become disrupted now by class distinctions that shall become as divisive as the caste system of India. The remedy will come in the training of our citizens in the home, the spirit of being men.

Have faith in yourselves. The greatest opportunities in all history are yours.

You can be the best for your own land and home and town as you cultivate the friendship and good will of all men, and seek to uplift all nations. You become a citizen of the world."

MUSIC IS PLEASING.

The eighth grade chorus then rendered two numbers, "Spring Has Come," and "Barcarolle," accompanied by Eugene Ames and Francis Stanton on cornets, a unique and pleasing musical feature.

Miss Eva Edwards, school principal, presented the class in a brief and very happily-worded talk, and the class was accepted by A. Nigg of the school board, who took occasion to comment significantly on the hard work that had very evidently been done by the school faculty, praising their fidelity and devotion to duty. He said that he had been told by some that school teachers only worked five hours per day, but that he knew that the actual school session hours were but half of the story of the work of these teachers, whom he saw each day on their way to school long before the time of opening, and who often passed his place of business near nightfall, with papers under their arms, evidently to spend the evening in preparing for the work of the next day. He presented the diplomas with a word of warm praise for the scholarship of the members of the class.

Shirley Verden, a graduate, made an excellent speech in presenting Miss Edwards with a check for $108, which represented the money saved by the class out of their entertainment activities, and which was presented by the class to be used in improving the auditorium. Miss Edwards responded with words of thanks. With a song by the class and the benediction by Rev. Eddy, the exercises closed.

Two members of the class were unable to receive diplomas at that time, owing to illness, being Clyde Daniels and Iris Aschenbrenner.

JUDGE NATHANIEL CLARK ENTERS INTO LAST REST

Approaching his eighty-seventh birthday, which would have been in December, Nathaniel C. Clark, for ten years a resident of Covina, and known in Pennsylvania and New York as one of the prominent citizens of a quarter of a century ago, died on Saturday of last week, June 18, at his home on Cottage Drive. He had been ill for some time, and his death had been expected during the past several weeks.

He was known to everyone as "Judge" Clark, as he was justice of the peace of Bradford, Pennsylvania, for many years. As a young man he studied for the bar, and would have been admitted had the call for volunteers not come for the Civil war. He went to the front with a New York regiment, and became captain of a company, serving in a long and hard period during the war. A valued memento of this service is retained by his family, a gold-headed cane presented to him by members of the corps.

Judge Clark was a very successful business man in the oil business in Pennsylvania during his prime. He is well known and well remembered in Titusville and Bradford of that state. He was born in Orange county, New York state, but spent his actual life in the oil fields of Pennsylvania as a pioneer in that industry, and at one time had amassed a fortune.

The funeral was held on Monday at 10 o'clock at the Church of the Sacred Heart, Catholic, in Covina. Rev. M. H. Geary preached the sermon, which was an eloquent tribute to the useful life of the deceased. The flag belonging to the members of the local G. A. R. covered the casket, and veterans and members of the W. R. C. were present to do honor to a fallen comrade. His favorite hymns, which included "Lead Kindly Light," were played. The interment was made in Oakdale cemetery.

Besides the widow he leaves four children, who are Mrs. W. E. Henry of Duarte, Miss Sophie Clark of Covina, Mrs. D. L. Driscoll of Coalinga, and Mrs. S. A. Gormley of Newhall. Seven grandchildren also survive him, and one great-grandchild, Yvonne Henry of Hollywood.

ALLISON GIVEN WILL ENTER HONOLULU TRADE

Allison Given, son of Mr. and Mrs. Given, who for several years has been athletic instructor of schools in Honolulu, is at home for the vacation period, and will spend the summer attending to business matters.

Mr. Given has made a marked success of his work in athletics, but said this week that on his return next fall he will go into the importing and exporting business in the islands. He is well known throughout the Covina valley, where he was educated in the high school, and where he made a record in sports.

PARENT-TEACHERS OF DISTRICT FORM FEDERATION

On the afternoon of June 20th, the officers of the various parent-teachers' association of the district met at the Covina grammar school for the purpose of forming a federation. Mrs. Hamilton Temple was elected temporary chairman of the meeting. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: president, Mrs. Ben S. Millikan of Covina; first vice-president, Mrs. W. D. Townsend of West Covina; second vice-president, Miss Clara Thomson, Charter Oak; secretary, Mrs. Groover, Lark Ellen; treasurer, Mrs. Graves, Baldwin Park.

While here he visited the Masonic home near Covina, and was shown over that institution by E. B. Spencer, the active director of the home.

In the evening a large number of Masonic brethren from the Covina valley accompanied the grand master to Monrovia, where an assembly and banquet was held in his honor. The grand master gave an eloquent address.

Governor Stephens, an honored guest in Covina this week, commented on the splendid growth of the valley, its new schools and new homes.

We are proud to have had something to do with the building program of this valley, and our services are at the disposal of any prospective house-builder at any time.

We suggest that you look over the books of modern plans for residences which are on display at our office.

Gov. Stephens in Address to Monday Afternoon Club

With the clubhouse profusely decorated with flowers of the season, and filled to capacity by the large membership, the Monday Afternoon club of Covina heard an address on Monday by Governor William D. Stephens, who was particularly happy in his felicitations to the club and its officers, and to the retiring president, Mrs. J. L. Matthews, who relinquishes the club presidency after three successful years in office.

Governor Stephens took occasion to review the growth and activities of the San Gabriel valley, recalling to mind the fact that he had been a resident of Los Angeles county for thirty-five years, and that during that time he had become intimately acquainted with many who were present in the audience and with the pioneers of the city and valley. He paid a splendid tribute to the industry and courage of the citrus and walnut growers who had changed the valley from a partial desert to great orchards. He spoke of the old days, when he hired a horse and buggy and drove out through this valley with the woman who afterwards became his wife.

"I called her attention to the profuse masses of orange bloom on every hand," said the governor, "and told her how easy it would be to get plenty of orange blossoms for the ceremony that I wanted her to participate in with me. It must have had something to do with impressing her with the desirability of this ceremony, and at all events it was afterwards performed, and we have lived the happiest of wedded lives, always retaining a special fondness for the scent of the orange groves in bloom." The governor said that he and his wife had just recently celebrated their thirtieth wedding anniversary.

"I hope you all have been as happy as my wife and I have been," said the governor. "I feel that Ambassador Choate said something for me when he said that if their was to be a reincarnation for him he would prefer to be Mrs. Choate's second husband."

LAUDS GREAT STATE.

The governor told of his constant trips up and down the state of California, of the hundreds of women's clubs he has addressed, paying tribute to the alert minds of the women of California, and to their participation in public affairs, which he said had had much to do with the bringing about of needed legislation for women and children and for the destitute and helpless of the population. No better members of the last legislature could be found than the three women members, he declared.

"I believe wholeheartedly and religiously in the destiny of this state," he said. "No other state in the union has its wondrous opportunities, its 2,000 miles of coast-line, its climate, its soil, its marvelous days of sunshine. No other state cares for its children as does California. This state provides more for education than any state in the union. Fifty-four per cent of the state expenditure provided for in the last budget, or forty-three millions, was set aside for education. Out of this money thirty millions is turned into the hands of the counties to be distributed." The governor gave a glowing tribute to the schools of the Covina city and valley, and also took occasion to compliment the people of the valley on their patriotism during the war. The governor spoke in Covina several times during the war.

The state stands eleventh in the union in the excellent care of its orphans and half-orphans and dependents, he stated. He spoke of the three and one half millions voted by the legislature for the care and for the advancement of the ex-service men of the state, and promised his undivided support to any legislation in the future that would benefit the men who engaged in the world-war. He also spoke of the $600,000 appropriated by the state to be used for flood control, a large part of which is to be used in Los Angeles county. He called attention to the anti-synicalism law which he had signed, and which he said would effectually curb the activities of the I. W. W.'s and the bolsheviks.

"I do not believe that any person should be allowed to become a citizen until they have passed a rigid examination in loyalty to this country and our flag, and have learned to read and write the English language," he said.

The governor was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Matthews at luncheon at their home on Navilla Place preceding the meeting.

For the afternoon Miss Augusta Sanders had decorated the clubhouse with pink and white roses, gladioli, Shasta daisies and ferns, while about the walls were long sprays of ivy, with masses of feathery bamboo at each side of the stage. The largest audience of the entire club year was present, over three hundred filling the auditorium. Practically the only business of the afternoon was the voting to favor the high school bond issue.

The annual reports showed clearly the broad work and interests of the Monday Afternoon club, and were given by the club president, Mrs. J. L. Matthews; by the program chairman, Mrs. Mary Coman; Americanization chairman, Mrs. H. N. Webber; chairman of civics and community service, Mrs. Emma Edwards; chairman of legislature, Mrs. J. D. Bixby; chairman of courtesy, Mrs. W. J. Nash; chairman of ways and means, Mrs. C. E. Paige; membership chairman, Mrs. F. R. Gillett; philanthropic chairman, Mrs. J. K. Hedges; social chairman, Miss Lillian Douglass; decoration chairman, Miss Augusta Sanders.

The officers installed were Mrs. C. E. Paige, president; Mrs. H. H. Cushman, recording secretary; Mrs. William Strickler, financial secretary. Following the installation Mrs. Matthews introduced to the club Mrs. Paige, their new president and said that she was giving into her care the finest and most willing body of club women and to them she gave a president of experience, talent and beauty of character. The gavel which she gave to Mrs. Paige was, Mrs. Matthews said, symbolic of the power for good which the club was to the community. As she presented the key to the beautiful grand piano which was purchased during her regime, Mrs. Matthews said that music was one of the greatest gifts given for our pleasure and uplift and that no program was complete without it. Mrs. Paige in her response gave full credit to Mrs. Matthews' personality and efficiency in winning such unprecedented success for the organization and those furnishing the very delightful musical program were Mrs. Charlotte White, soprano, whose beautiful voice is just being discovered by Covina audiences; Mrs. Henry L. Marshall, who has long been a favorite contralto, and Mrs. David Watson, who is a pianist of rare ability.

MISS ROBERTA CASE WEDS MONROVIA YOUNG MAN

Case of this city, was united in marriage to Mr. Frank Cochran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cochran of Monrovia. Rev. M. Howard Fagan of Los Angeles officiated. Only the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties were present. Following the ceremony the couple left for Catalina, where they will remain for a week. On their return they will reside in Monrovia, where Mr. Cochran is employed by the Solar Heater company. Mrs. Cochran was a member of the Covina high school and has many friends here. What Is Honesty?

Every man should live within his means—this is the essence of honesty.
If he does not, he is living dishonestly on the means of others.
Many people there are, who not only live within their means, but save a part of their earnings as a surplus for the day of adversity.
This bank will provide a place, both safe and convenient, to invest your surplus until needed.
